The Mask of Inanna is a nine-part audio drama podcast, featuring Andy Lebrun. It tells the story of Leonard Allen, once host of the 1950s horror show "After Dark", who is brought out of retirement in 2008 by a mysterious cult offering him a job: to finally air the lost episodes of his show from a New England lighthouse over pirate radio!

"The Mask of Inanna takes all the toys in the audio drama box and uses them to create something completely original."

—Pete Milan, Pendant Productions

"The Mask of Inanna is a fascinating hybrid of a modern story with mystic overtones (reminiscent of Twin Peaks or the more fantastical tales of Stephen King), coupled with a beautifully-done "show within a show" pastiche of classic old time radio."

—Julie Hoverson, 19 Nocturne Boulevard

"No program better marries the legacy of old time radio with the potential of modern audio drama. I daresay it's a little unlike anything you have heard before."

—Fred Greenhalgh, Radio Drama Revival
